STATE MATTERS.

Proposition to Dispose of State Lands by the Commissioners.

Almost Fatal Work of a Lucretia Borgia at Denver.

Fine Display at the Horticultural Fair Reported.

STATE LANDS.

DENVER, June 20.—The state board of land commissioners met in Governor Pitkin's office yesterday afternoon for the purpose of effecting the sale of some 35,000 acres of land on the south side of the Rio Grande river, in Conejos county, to a company of the leading citizens of that county, whose object it is to construct irrigating ditches for the purpose of enhancing the value of the land. The meeting was called to order by Governor Pitkin. There were present Attorney-general Toll, Secretary of State Meldrum, Superintendent of Public Instruction Cornell, State Auditor Davis, and State Treasurer Sanders, of the land commission, and also Messrs. J. S. Slaughter, L. D. O'Connor, J. A. McDonald, Henry Gale, of Alamosa, Judge Steck, of Denver, William McGuire, of Del Norte, and J. Marshall, of Denver, representing a syndicate which had, in view the purchase of the land. Attorney-general Toll stated to the meeting that the sale of the land could not be consummated to-day, on account of the negligence of the secretary of the land commission in not signing his name to the advertisement, and it was also claimed the notice of the sale had not been given sufficient publicity. The board finally concluded it would be better to postpone the sale for thirty days or a month from to-day. When it became known that the state intended to take advantage of the law passed at the last legislature and order the sale of the 35,000 acres in alternate quarter sections, a syndicate was formed and $25,000 subscribed to construct irrigation ditches through the land to be purchased, and also through the intervening sections of government lands. The money is now in Denver and would have been invested at once had the sale taken place. It appears that under the new law the company or individuals purchasing lands must improve them by irrigating them, or else they will be reverted back to the state.

A FAMILY POISONED.

DENVER, June 20.—Yesterday afternoon Jas. T. Potter, roadmaster of the Denver and South Park railway, while inspecting some of the company's ties near Dome Rock was suddenly seized with raging pains in the back and head which completely prostrated him. He was put upon a Denver-bound train and on reaching the depot was placed in a carriage and driven to his home where to his horror he found every member of his household, consisting of eight persons, suffering in the same manner as himself. A servant was unconscious and apparently near death. Medicaid was summoned and by dint of hard labor, assisted by neighbors and friends, at an early hour this morning the different members of the family were pronounced out of danger. Dr. McBeth, the family physician, pronounced the whole family as suffering from arsenical poisoning. Living in the neighborhood is a woman alleged by those who know her to be a veritable Lucretia Borgia in all her actions and thoughts. It is said she has twice attempted to end her own life by taking poison. It is common amusement for her to scatter about the streets and alleys large doses of some strange compound, which has been the means of ending the life of numerous dogs, chickens and other animals that eat it. Whether this person is the cause of the bold attempt to poison the Potter household, is now the subject of investigation. Detectives are now hard at work and the results may be expected soon.

STATE HORTICULTURAL FAIR.

The second annual fair of the Colorado State Horticultural society was formally opened to the public at 7:30 this evening. The display is a great improvement over last year's, and demonstrates to a certainty that Colorado is a fruit growing state, and especially adapted to the culture of small fruits and berries.

THE EXPOSITION BUILDING PROGRESSING.

The report to the effect that the exposition building was damaged by the late wind and rain storm has no foundation in fact. Not the least damage was sustained, not to the displacing of a single brick. The building is rapidly approaching completion, and everything will be in readiness by August 1st, the opening day.

STATE ITEMS.

A postoffice has been established by the department at Silver Creek, Alpine county, on the route between Silver Mountain and Monitor.

The sheriff in Denver yesterday took charge of all that remained of the elegant millinery stock kept by James L. Markham, on Lawrence street, between 15th and 16th streets.

Silk Culture.

NEW YORK, June 20.—A number of invited guests were present at the American silk rearing exhibition at Turn Halle last evening to listen to a lecture by Herman Rake on the purpose and process of and silk matters pertaining to silk culture in this country. Before the lecture the guests visited the tables covered with silk worms in all stages of life from an egg to a butterfly, while a Japanese boy was reeling off silk from cocoons and the weaving process was going on at a loom. Since the opening of the exhibition there has been added a large number of various kinds of worms and the hall has been decorated with pictures representing silk culture in Japan. The object of the exhibition, the lecturer said, was to show what could be done in silk culture in this country. Vast sums of money are leaving this country for silk which could all be kept here. It was easy work, he added, for children to take part in feeding and watching over worms, and that France was able in a large degree to pay her great debt incurred in the Franco-Prussian war, through the part the children took in silk culture. In conclusion he recited the large growth in silk worm culture and silk manufacture in this country within a few years.

THE ESCAMBIA DISASTER.

Four of the Crew Saved, and have Nothing to Say.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 20. By telephone from Point Lobos it is learned that Captain Purvis with the engineer, cook and steward of the Escambia, came ashore in one of the ship's boats about daylight near Ocean house. No report regarding the disaster received from them.

LATER.—It proves difficult to obtain much information regarding the loss of the steamer Escambia. Captain Purvis has been closeted during the morning with the consignees, and the men rescued with him have been stowed away to sleep off the fatigue of the night's struggle with the water. This much, however, has been gleaned from statements made by the captain and by stevedores who stowed the vessel. Owing to the empty condition of the water ballast tanks and the coal carried on the deck, the ship was crank. On getting outside she encountered a heavy sea. One of the journals became heated and the engines were stopped. The ship losing headway fell off in the trough of the sea, and a wave boarded her, throwing her on her beam ends. All hands rushed on deck and the water began to pour in through the skylights and hatches on the deck. Owing to the dangerous position of the ship, no one would go below to start the engines and get her head to the sea again, and she filled rapidly and sank. The captain and engineer and seven others got into one boat and nine men took the life boat. The latter boat was full of water and had no oars. The captain supposes that the remainder of the crew, eleven in number, went down with the ship. The captain's boat pulled around in the darkness until about 1 a. m. when an attempt was made to land on Ocean beach. The boat swamped and only four of the occupants succeeded in reaching land. This morning search was made along the beach for the bodies of the other occupants of the boat, but no trace of them was found. The revenue cutter Richard Rush is now out looking for the life boat. The Escambia had on board a cargo of wheat valued at 500,000; fully insured. The ship is believed to have been insured in Liverpool. It is stated that it is the custom to empty the water tanks on loading and coal is used up to fill the tanks to preserve stability. The general impression is the disaster was due to piling coal on deck. Inquiry will be held at once. Meantime parties interested maintain guarded silence.

Cheese Eaters.

CHICAGO, June 20.—The Chicago Inter-Ocean says a Michigan special says seventy-five people have been poisoned there since Friday by eating a certain brand of cheese; not however fatally. A microscopic examination showed it filled with some unrecognized parasites.

The New Bridge.

CHICAGO, June 20.— Officers of the Chicago and Alton railway say in reply to the published statement that it was about to join with the Pennsylvania company and other roads in building an independent bridge across the Mississippi river at St. Louis that the company has not been asked to join in such a project.

Mining Market.

NEW YORK, June 20. Mining stocks very dull, with the exception of Robinson Consolidated and State Lines, 2 and 3. Robinson was steady at 90 and 92. State Lines, Nos. 2 and 3, fluctuated between 27 and 31. Amie sold at 22 and 23. Chrysolite, 3.55 and 3.60, and Navajo, 2.85. Sales of the day, 129,575 shares.

The Times on America.

LONDON, June 20.—The Times, in a leading article on the progress of America, says: "If there were direct evidence forthcoming of the reality and rapidity of the material progress in the United States it would be found in the peculiar absence of excitement in American politics. What is especially remarkable in the development of American energy and success is its wide and equal distribution. It bears testimony to the political capacity of the people, and affords good grounds for hope in the future that the negro will be rescued from the mischievous interference of professional philanthropists and self-seeking demagogues."

Still They Come.

New York Herald.

Our importations from Europe last week in the way of immigrants were the heaviest ever known during any corresponding period in the history of the country. The exact number landed at Castle Garden was 23,545; but there were in addition 2,550 immigrants in port when it was found impossible to bring ashore until Sunday. The highest previous record was for the corresponding period in May of last year when 20,178 arrivals were reported. The world has never seen an immigration on so stupendous a scale as this. It is an index of the marvellous prosperity of the republic as compared with the nations of the Old World. There was a time when immigration was confined to two or three nationalities; now nearly every geographical and political division of Europe is represented. Castle Garden has become a veritable Tower of Babel, and there is probably no place of the same size in all the world where so many languages are heard at the same time. Thirty years ago an invasion of this magnitude would have been looked upon with apprehension. Time and experience have brought us more wisdom, and America offers homes, a chance to live, political equality to all who are willing to work. The Chinaman is the only one against whom a senseless, foolish prejudice has erected the barriers, but it is to be hoped we shall soon get over that form of know-nothingism.

WESTERN CLAIMS.

WASHINGTON, June 10.—An attempt to pass under suspension of rules the bill which was recently passed by the senate authorizing the secretary of the treasury in connection with the secretary of war to examine into and report to congress the amount of claims made by certain western states and territories for reimbursement of expenses incurred in repelling Indian hostilities since 1861 created quite a little excitement. The bill includes claims of the states of California, Colorado, Nevada, Texas, Kansas, Oregon and Nebraska, and Idaho and Washington territories. It was opposed by Cannon, of Illinois, Hiscock, of New York, and a number of southern members. The points made against the bill were: First, that it was opening the door for claims of every state in the union for expenses incurred in calling out their militia in cases of riot, etc.; and second, that no estimate ever was given of the possible amount of money involved. After a long and bitter wrangle and exhibition of a good deal of temper, the bill was put to a vote. The result showed, ayes, 64; nays, 132; and the point of "no quorum" was raised. After a call of the house showing more than half the members absent, an adjournment was had, the agreement being, however, reached first that a vote is to be taken on the measure the first thing to-morrow morning. It is doubtful if the requisite two-thirds vote can be obtained for the measure to-morrow.

COUNTERFEIT OR NOT COUNTERFEIT.

WASHINGTON, June 20.—It is stated in explanation by government officers in the case of Doyle, sentenced to-day in Chicago, that it will be no more difficult for Doyle to communicate with them from prison where he will go after his sentence, than it has been during his confinement in jail awaiting sentence. The fact that he is under sentence does not militate against him, as he will have the same chance in proving his position in regard to the bond plate that he has had any time since arrest. It is also explained that the taking of the plates to New York is to determine whether they are electrotyped or engraved on commercial copper. If it is commercial copper, that fact does not prove they are genuine or genuine impressions, for counterfeiters would be able to obtain commercial copper as well as the government. If, however, it should be decided they are the deposits of a battery, there will be no doubt at all as to their being counterfeit.

A CALIFORNIA CONTEST.

WASHINGTON, June 20.—Representative Berry presented to the secretary of war today a memorial of the executive committee of the Anti-Hydraulic Mining Debris association adopted at the session in Sacramento June 7th last, asking immediate removal of Lieut. Col. Geo. H. Mendel, government engineer in charge of the fund for the protection of Sacramento and Feather rivers. They ask this as a measure of relief, claiming that he is interested in favor of the miners in the contest now being waged between business and agricultural interests and mining interests. They claim that by his reports he is committing the government to a system of work which will accomplish nothing in the line of relief.

A TOUCHING SCENE.

NEW YORK, June 20.—The Tribune's Washington special says: There was a touching scene in the senate to-day. The postmaster-general called on Senator Van Wyck and they were in conversation for one-half an hour. Judging from their smiling faces bygones will be bygones. At any rate it is safe to assume that it will be a long time before the postmaster-general calls Van Wyck to account again for his vote in executive session.

NORTHERN PACIFIC LAND GRANT.

WASHINGTON, June 10.—Messrs. Townsend, of Illinois, Knott, of Kentucky, Paine, of Illinois, and Culberson, of Texas, the minority of the house judiciary committee, has completed the supplemental report and resolution recommending that the lands granted to the Northern Pacific be declared forfeited. The resolution and their view in support of it will be submitted as soon as practicable. The report, after giving an extended history of the doings of the company, reach the conclusion that it has been lavish in its expenditures. The committee concludes: Applying the auditor's estimate, however, to the entire grant, the result will be the value of 57,020,000 acres, at $2.50 per acre, $144,500,000; the estimated cost of the road, finished, is $74,843,416; unfinished, $50,110,000; total cost, $ 2,464,416; leaving a balance of $9,032,758 donated to this corporation in addition to the whole cost of the entire system of subsidized lines, for which the United States are never to receive a cent in return. Further comment would be superfluous and the undersigned would simply add that in view of these facts it is due to the house and to the country, not only that the substance of the land grant should be fully and fairly discussed, but that congress should take such prompt and decisive action regarding thereto as will be just alike to the company and the people. They therefore ask the accompanying joint resolution be placed on the calendar of the house and recommend its adoption: That all lands heretofore granted to the Northern Pacific railroad company, and the remaining unclaimed by construction on the first day of January, 1873, be, and the same are hereby declared forfeited to the United States.

WASHINGTON NOTES.

Senator Fair of Nevada is said to have subscribed $500,000 towards the construction of Senator Camden's new railroad from Wheeling to Parkersburg, West Virginia. The road will, it is said, ultimately be extended to Cincinnati.

A bill was introduced in the house yesterday by Dingley of Maine providing that wire ropes, iron masts, and iron yards, intended for the equipment of vessels built in the United States for foreign trade, including the trade between the Atlantic and Pacific ports of the United States, may be imported in bond free of duty.

Frye, from the committee on rules reported a resolution amending rule four, that in the absence of the president, the senate shall choose a president pro tem. who, when temporarily absent, may designate in writing a senator to perform the duties of the chair for the day, and during such temporary absence, until the senate shall otherwise order.

The house committee on expenditures in the war department yesterday heard the commissary general and others on the subject of the alleged abuses in adjudication of the claims in the office of the quartermaster general. The commissary general and Third Auditor General McCeely, were of the opinion that there is no foundation for the charges that certain employes in the office received considerations for using their influence in the adjudication of claims. He advocates the appointment of a commissioner for each of the several districts in which the claims originate.

Stock Raising in British Columbia.

Victoria Standard.

There is no reason to believe that any decline in price or any slackening in demand for beef cattle will take place for many years to come. The influx of immigrants into the country to carry on railway work will maintain, if not increase, the demand, and by that the price will be regulated. The present is therefore an extremely favorable opportunity for enterprising men to engage in the business of stock raising. The field for such operations is at present of almost boundless extent. There is an enormous range of suitable country extending from the Hamatheo river to Stewart's lake, and, we believe, even further north, and west, which is stated to be eminently fitted for stock raising and almost unoccupied. The few settlers already in the district report that cattle do well all the year round and require no winter feed. Another tract of land, smaller in extent but well worth notice and which is said to be still unoccupied, lie between Kamloops and Nicola valley. This tract has abundant feed, but the snow is said to lie rather deep on it in winter. It is, however, well suited for a summer range, and would pasture a large number of animals. Then there is a wide range of pasture land in the neighborhood of the Kootenay river with its unlimited range and great facilities for driving stock into the northwest, where the demand is at present great.

Fire Among the Shipping.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 20.—A fire broke out about two o'clock this morning on the Oakland pier, in the vicinity of the old Forty slip and depot. The bark Great Western burned to the water's edge. The ships Big Bonanza and Centennial and the British bark Norna were damaged by fire, which is not yet extinguished. The fire boat was sent over from the city.

LATER—Loss by fire at Oakland wharf this morning on the wharf and warehouses $300,000; ship Great Western and cargo $10,000; and the British bark Norna, damaged mostly in the rigging, $8,000. The ships Centennial and Big Bonanza were towed out before receiving serious damage. The fire originated in a warehouse.

STORM-STRICKEN.

Work of Raising a Relief Fund for the Needy Begun.

Reports of Damage by Saturday Night's Storm

Continue to Come in from the Interior of Iowa.

DES MOINES, June 20. An impromptu mass meeting of citizens of Des Moines was held at the opera house tonight. Over $2,400 was reported raised to day for the relief of Grinnell and other storm-stricken localities of Iowa.

Mail reports from Story county report damage there by the cyclone of Saturday night as very serious. Several buildings were swept away at Kelly. All buildings on the farm of J. A. McDonald and William Templeton was obliterated. Further east all buildings on sixteen farms were swept away. Two school houses in Nevada were demolished. The Story county farmers who lost everything in goods, furniture stock and horses are B. J. Everett, L. D. Tucker, R. F. Chapman, Geo. F. Hempstock, L. D. Thompson, Benton Carrington and Mr. Whitney. Those who suffered considerable loss are Ira Baker, Ed. Pierce, Wm. Mathews, Geo. Holly, H. J. Alderman and A. V. Morris. A school house in Albany was carried away. All growing crops in the track of the wind were destroyed and cattle, horses, hogs and poultry carried a long distance and deposited dead. Mrs L. D. Thompson's little girls are dead and her own arm broken. G. W. Hempstock's leg is broken and his wife and child are injured internally.

In Boone county a number of farm houses and barns were carried off and an eight-year-old boy of Christian Peterson was killed.

The list of wounded at Malcom, Poweshiek county, is: Mr. Houk, Mr. Anders and three children, Mr. Srieckloth and wife, Mrs. Rogers, Mrs. Wetherbee, O. Meyers and son, John Duffus, wife and child, Mr. Anders and wife, Mr. Black and wife and three children, three of McClure's family and three of Mr. Standocker's family.

DES MOINES, June 20.—Report from Story county indicates further destruction west of Kelley. Mr. Clark, at Garden Prairie, Turner house and barn destroyed and his horses killed. Mr. Roberts lost his barn and three horses. George Lewis' house was wrecked, he and his wife and daughter held to a wire fence. Civing's barn and other buildings were wiped away. All accounts seem to indicate that the tornado originated in Boone county, having been seen but little further west of there. N. T. K. Macomber, of the agricultural college, put its commencement in the southeast corner of that county. After damaging the barn of Mr. Lewis it divided, one branch going north, and a half mile from there tearing Mr. Clark's house to splinters. Roberts' house was completely wrecked. South of Ames eight head of cattle were twisted up and torn to pieces.

DES MOINES, June 20.—The following appeal for aid is furnished the associated press:

To the Public.

After two days and nights spent in traversing the track of the tornado and having reports from scores of reporters from all parts of it, I find the condition of the stricken people so piteous and so needful of instant and generous help that I send this appeal to the people of the United States in their behalf. The tornado made a swath of destruction through the thickly settled portion of Iowa, an average of some 150 miles in length and an average of half a mile wide, extending from a point south of Ames in the center of the state and swept in the shape of a crescent to South Bend in Keokuk county, in the southeast part of the state. We have names of 69 dead and 500 wounded. Half the latter are grievously hurt, and probably one-fifth of them fatally. Over 300 families have had their homes totally destroyed and there are at least 1,350 homeless and in want. The loss in property will exceed two millions of dollars, and may reach three millions. In one county alone $400,000 in property was destroyed, on none of which was a cent of insurance, as in the case of fire. It will take at least $300,000 to put the people there beyond need and distress. It will take one hundred thousand at once to put the wounded people in a condition to be cared for. It will take a million at the lowest to keep sufferers from want and put the humblest kind of a roof over their heads. The people of Des Moines and Iowa are responding. Citizens of this city subscribed $8,000 this morning and will make it $20,000 before night, in money and provisions and clothes.

GANSON'S VICTIM.

What the Chicago Times has to Say of Hattie Finch's Abduction.

The Chicago Times has on one or two occasions published statements of the abduction of Hattie Finch. From the last paper received here we take the following, which speaks of the arrival of the girl and her rescuer in Chicago,

A dispatch from Colorado Springs, Col., published in the Times of Thursday last, stated that a man named William Ganson, alias Brown, had been arrested there for abducting Hattie Finch from her home in Chicago; that the girl's brother-in-law, J. S. Bell, had followed her, caused the arrest of her abductor, and taken her back to Chicago. Mr. Bell and the young lady, whose name is not Finch, but Shinling, arrived here late Thursday night. The story that the girl and her friends told to a Times reporter indicates that she barely escaped a horrible fate through the prompt action of her brother-in-law. The girl lived with her parents on Paulina street. Her father is a well-to-do German cabinet-maker. Her elder sister, who also lives at home, is the wife of Mr. Bell, a travelling salesman. Nearly two years ago Hattie went daily for some months to the dressmaking establishment of a Mrs. Ganson, on Twelfth street, near Throop, to learn the trade. In that way a slight acquaintance between the Ganson and Shinling families began. Mrs. Ganson's husband, who is a carpenter, went to Colorado about two years ago, and when he came home three or four times a year, represented to his acquaintances that he was a designer in a cabinet-making establishment in Denver and was making lots of money. He came back for the last time two weeks ago, for the purpose of taking his wife and goods to his new home in Colorado. On Thursday of last week Hattie went to pay a farewell visit to Mr. Ganson. She did not return home that night, and, as this was very unusual, Mr. Bell went to the Ganson house the next day to find her. The house was empty. All the furniture was gone, and the neighbors informed him that the Gansons had moved out that morning. For some reason he immediately suspected that Hattie had either been enticed or forced to accompany the Gansons to Colorado. He made a tour of the railroad offices, and found that Ganson, under the name of Brown, had shipped his goods to Colorado Springs over the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railroad. At the general ticket office of the Wabash railroad he found that a man answering Ganson's description had bought three tickets for the same place. He started after them by the first train. At several places on the road he heard of the party, and that the young girl seemed to be sick and was constantly crying. Ganson, his wife, and Hattie reached Colorado Springs on Monday night and went to a hotel. Mr. Bell reached the same place Tuesday morning at 3 o'clock. He had a letter of introduction to the marshal of Colorado Springs from Inspector Doyle, of this city, which he delivered. In company with the marshal he sought for the girl and her captors, and met them walking on the street. As soon as Hattie saw her brother she ran to him, crying and begging him to take her home. Ganson and his wife were at once arrested and are now held in custody until a requisition can be obtained from Gov. Cullom. Bell and Hattie came to Chicago. Hattie was then and is still completely prostrated by terror and excitement, and was not out of her bed yesterday. She cannot speak of her experience without breaking down, and the whole story has probably not yet been told. Nevertheless, it appears from what she does say that Ganson had done her no violence except in forcing her to accompany him. She says that she was forced to go with him to the depot, and that he threatened to shoot her if she made any disturbance or called for help. She was sick during the whole journey, and was not molested by Ganson. Hattie is a pretty blonde, 16 years old, and almost a woman in size. She has always been quiet and retiring, has always lived at home, and has never had any very attentive lovers. There is no reason to disbelieve her story or to suppose that she went away willing. Her very innocence made her the easier prey for the abductors, who would have found some difficulty in frightening into silence a bold girl well acquainted with the ways of the world. Her friends believe that Ganson took her to Colorado either to get her away from the influence of her home and ruin her himself, or to sell her in some bagnio. The latter supposition is the most credible, as they think now that Ganson has been for some time engaged in that business. He has had more money and has traveled about much more than was consistent with his carpenter's trade, and his frequent visits to this city are now thought to have been for the purpose of procuring young girls for prostitution in Denver, although no case of the kind is yet positively known. His wife, a big, slatternly woman, is suspected to have aided him in the infamous business, as she certainly aided him in carrying off Hattie Shinling. Mr. Shinling and Mr. Bell will prosecute the wretch for his crime, and the expression of their faces as they spoke of Hattie's suffering, showed that if Ganson were within their reach they would gladly relieve the courts of all responsibility in the matter. But the tears were in the honest German's eyes when he told of his innocent daughter's escape from the miserable fate which these monsters had planned for her. Under the law of this state the abductor of a chaste female for purposes of concubinage or prostitution is liable to ten years' imprisonment.

Cowboys and Indians.

CHICAGO, June 20.—A Little Rock special says: During a fight between cowboys and Indians on the border of the Indian Territory four of the former were killed. Col. Alexander Polk of Howard county had employed some cowboys to drive a herd of 2,000 cattle to Colorado. The boys were herding the stock in the Nation on route for their destination and were ordered to remove the stock, but failed to or refused to do so, when the fight ensued.

The New York Tribune says: We are authorized by the family of the late Chief Justice Chase to say that the letters of Gen. Garfield to his father which have lately appeared were obtained by the press without their consent and published without their knowledge.

Governor Hoyt of Pennsylvania says that the rumors that the republicans stand no chance of carrying Dauphin this fall are not well founded. They have no foundation, such as there is, we do not know. We have got the pick and we are for the ticket.

The Sunflower prosecutions in Washington will bring to light the names of towns and towns in Colorado that have never been heard of, even by the wandering seeker of town lots at ground floor prices. And yet thousands of dollars were upon printed to expedite the mails to those mythical places.

During the eleven months ended May 31, 1881, the United States exported breadstuffs to the value of $244,177,413, and during the corresponding period of the present fiscal year $167,853,[illegible], falling off of about seventy seven millions of dollars, to be largely attributed to the poor crops of last year.

The Grant site for his tomb is definitely located, near Denver. The ground was bought from Bishop Machebeuf for $900 per acre. It certainly looks to greenhorns as though Pueblo would have been much better location, but we presume the intelligent men in charge of the enterprise satisfied themselves to the contrary. It will be of great advantage to Denver.

We have received the first number of the National Farmer, published at Washington, D. C. It contains an admirable engraving of Hon. George B. Loring, commissioner of agriculture, a very suitable picture to start with. If through the efforts of the Farmer two blades of grass can be made to grow where one now grows, it will have done more good to the country than all the papers published in it put together.

Wanamaker is placed between two fires. General Beaver, republican candidate for governor of Pennsylvania, in his anxiety to strengthen his ticket and his own election, is receiving hundreds of letters from all parts of the state written to Wanamaker urging him to accept the proffered nomination for congressman at large. On the other hand Wanamaker's strong personal friends among the business men of Philadelphia are urging him to keep out of politics. He has not yet decided what to do in the matter.

The business of the country looks much better than it did a few weeks ago. The railroads are carrying more freight and passengers, and their shares have made a satisfactory advance in price. The prospect for a heavy crop of cereals has drawn out unexpectedly large reserves from the great agricultural sections of the country. The export trade shows a large increase and taken altogether we all have reason to be satisfied. We believe that a profitable fall business is just before us.

The Horticultural Exhibition opened yesterday at Denver, and we shall be glad to hear of its receiving the patronage it deserves. We regret that El Paso county cannot do something towards making it interesting, but owing to the backwardness of the season our fruits are not yet ripe. In a week or ten days a number of fruit growers in this town and vicinity will have, we doubt not, as fine specimens as were ever seen in this state, but the exhibition comes too early for them this year. That portion of the state north of Pueblo is usually able to get its fruit to market a little sooner than we can.

The Denver Republican's defense of political assessments is very weak. It begins by calling them "voluntary contributions." It certainly knows that the term is a misnomer. It is no more a voluntary contribution than that of the victim of the highwayman when he tremblingly hands over his wallet in order that he may retain his brains. In almost every instance the government employe loses his place and consequently his living when he refuses to "contribute" the sum called for, the amount of which he is not even allowed the privilege of making. The Republican further excuses the custom by saying that the demand is "the exception." That is one of the strongest reasons why it ought to be abolished. The Republican accuses them also of gross frauds in elections, of sending men to remove through the mails of tissue ballots, and of a great number of other morally dishonest transactions. Would it have the republican party follow its opponent in all these devious ways? As a rule it is safer to avoid what that benighted party does than to follow its example. Its habits got to be so bad years ago that the people withdrew from its support. When the republican party cites its example as an excuse for wrong doing it deserves no better fate. The Republican says that individuals not in office are assessed, etc. This is not so. They are not "assessed," but are asked in very courteous terms for a contribution which is in all cases voluntary. The individual out of office has a right to give whatever he thinks he can afford, or to refuse to give anything, or to kick the applicant for campaign funds out of his house, and no harm can come to him for so doing. Can the office holder be equally independent?

A ROYAL BALL AT ATHENS

Dances that are Popular and Maids that are Not Fair

ATHENS, Jan. 12. It is a popular saying in Greece that every other day is a holiday. Probably no other nation indulges so much in merry making, and no other religion has so many saints' days to be "kept holy" as that of the Greek church. But of all their holidays the opening of the new year, which occurs on the 14th of January, according to our calendar, is celebrated with the greatest festivity. It assumes the prominence of a great national holiday and impresses an American as a combination of our Christmas and Fourth of July. It is the occasion of exchanging presents and the opportunity for the youthful part of the population to indulge in fire-works and torch light processions. Happening to be in Athens at the time, I was awakened at 5 o'clock in the morning by the firing of cannon. The city was already astir. Boys were ringing clackers, and brass bands, playing martial airs, were parading the street. At 9 o'clock everybody was on hand to see the royal family, escorted by a battalion of cavalry, pass down Hermes street, to attend mass in the cathedral. But the great event of the day was the grand ball at the palace in the evening. The palace faces the principal square of the city, and is a large yellow building, looking more like a barrack than a royal residence. Its interior, however, proved a pleasant contrast to its gloomy external appearance.

Entering through a large hall, which had been decorated with evergreens from Pentelicus, we passed up a broad marble stairway to the ante chamber of the ball rooms. Brass cannon stood at the entrance of this chamber, and within were hung the tattered battle-flags of the war of independence. In the first of a series of drawing rooms the maids of honor were receiving the guests, who consisted chiefly of the members of the diplomatic corps, the ministers of state, the senators, professors of the university, and army and navy officers. There is no nobility in Greece. Otho attempted to introduce something of the sort, but it is most democratic of kingdoms, would not submit to it and to-day the only aristocracy of the country is one of culture and wealth, which, in many of its conditions, bears a strong resemblance to the society of the United States. The ball rooms were large and lofty, and were finished in a simple but effective style, and were lighted by a large number of very beautiful chandeliers. Around the first and largest of the rooms were little balconies from one of which the three princes and two princesses of the family looked down upon the scene until they were sent to bed, which happened at rather an early hour, for the discipline of the kings family is strict and the royal children are obliged to meet their tutor at 7:30 in the morning. As the time drew near for the entrance of the king and queen, the guests crowded toward the ante chamber, and when the master of ceremonies signaled the way there was a flutter of excitation all over the company. The royal couple passed between the rows of guests to the centre of the room. The queen turned at once to talk with the assembled ladies, who took care to place themselves where they would be observed by her majesty as she passed along the line. The king turned in an informal way toward the gentlemen. George I, the second son of the king of Denmark, and brother to the Prince of Wales, is a handsome man of 37, with fair complexion, rich color, blue eyes, light mustache, and an easy, affable manner. He resembles the Greeks only in being exceedingly bald. He wore the dress uniform of the Greek army, a broad blue sash, and numerable decorations. The queen, Olga of Russia, wore a dress of white satin and tulle. The corsage decolletee, which is de rigueur at court, was richly trimmed with point lace and a garniture of roses of different shades of red gave an elegant effect to the costume. A necklace and parure of diamonds set off to advantage her exceedingly pretty blonde face.

Next to the royal family, the foreign ambassadors and their wives attracted most attention. The German, Russian and French ministers were superb in all the glitter of diplomatic gold lace, the Austrian minister was a noticeable figure in the light blue coat and red trousers of the Austrian cavalry, the representative of the porte was conspicuous for his fez, which the Turks always wear on state occasions, and the British minister, Mr. Lord, was elegant in the simple uniform of the British diplomatic service. The United States are not represented at Athens. We three Americans who were present were conspicuous for plain dress suits and the absence of all decoration. There were few guests who were not in uniform, and I believe we were the only persons who were not decorated in some way. Thus, in spite of the fact that Greece is a kingdom without a nobility, her court has all the glitter of the oldest courts of Europe. The great variety and richness of the uniforms were particularly noticeable. The various members and attaches of the diplomatic corps, the foreign guests, and the officers of the foreign men of war now at the Piræus—all contributed to the dazzling effect. The most elegant uniforms were those of the Greek army officers. The Greek army is composed of chiefly of officers, and they were evidently all present. Perhaps the most interesting dress of all was the old national Greek costume—the embroidered jacket, dropping kilt with blue tassel and spotless fustanella—which was worn by a number of the senators. Some of these dresses were rich with gold and silver braid, and all were picturesque and fantastic. Among the distinguished guests were Coumpoundouros, the prime minister, and Dr. Schliemann, the discoverer of Troy.

After the informal presentations were over, dancing began with a square dance, which resembled a quadrille in its figure, but which permitted a number of couples, instead of one on each side. The first set, led by the king and Mme. Ladomitz, the wife of the German minister, was composed of the most distinguished of the guests. The waltz was a furious dance, in which the couples plunged about the room without reversing or paying any regard to the music. One round was usually sufficient to exhaust them, and a number of accidents occurred on account of a conflict of swords and fees during this dangerous dancing. The ladies did not form a large proportion of the 700 guests, for very many of the Athenians who lost friends by the terrible fever of the past summer are now in mourning, and though a Greek gentleman remains in mourning only a week or two a lady is obliged to give up society for a year. The ladies present all wore the corsage low and were lavishly painted and powdered. They are not handsome, these maids of Athens. They have large, heavy faces, dark hair and eyes, and pale complexions. But the beautiful Greek girl is by means a myth, and among the lower classes of the capital, or among the peasants of the Greek islands, you will see many faces that are wonderfully fine. The dances were continued to the first of the suite of ball rooms, and the other rooms were occupied by promenaders. In one room many of the superfluous gentlemen were seated at card-tables, for it is the custom to gamble on New Year's night, and some of the young men lose large sums by this form of the day's festivity. It is said that of all Greek imports the greatest revenue of the custom house is derived from perfumery and playing-cards. All through the evening servants in livery—the old Greek costume, which gave them the appearance of ballet girls—passed around ices, cake, and refreshing drinks. At 12:30 the company followed the royal couple to the banquet, the Russian ambassador taking precedence. A long suite of rooms was necessary for the accommodation of the guests. Some of these rooms were elegantly decorated, and one which was finished in Pompeian red was conspicuous for its oil paintings and decorations of game. All the tables were lavishly furnished with flowers. The company stood while eating, and the banquet was sumptuous. There was an abundance of salads, cold meats, fish, jellies, "glikisimata," Greek wines and champagne. After supper the gentlemen assembled in large numbers to smoke in the library, and in the ball-room the German was indulged in by as many of the guests as could find accommodation. At 2 o'clock royalty began to look bored, and the king actually yawned, but according to the Greek custom, the dancing was prolonged until a late hour, and it was 4 o'clock when the palace doors were closed after the last departing guest, and the servants retired to "count the spoons."

Trustee's Sale.

Whereas, Lucius S. Richardson of Colorado Springs, in the county of El Paso, in the state of Colorado, by his certain deed of trust dated April 1st, 1881 and duly recorded in the office of the clerk and recorder of said county on July 1st 1881 in book 40 at page 141 of the records of said El Paso county, to secure the payment of his nine promissory notes dated April 1st, 1881 for the aggregate sum of $4,600 payable to the order of Martin C. Gantry, eight of said notes being for $500 each and payable respectively on or before three, six, nine, twelve, fifteen, eighteen, twenty-one and twenty four months after date, and one of said notes being for $600 payable on or before twenty seven months after date, and each note bearing interest from date until paid at the rate of ten per cent per annum, did convey to James H. Barlow, of the said city of Colorado Springs in said county and state, as trustee, all those premises hereinafter described by which trust deed it is provided that in case of default in the payment of said notes or any part thereof, or the interest thereon, it may be lawful for said James H. Barlow to advertise and sell the premises in said trust deed described and as therein provided, and whereas default has been made in the payment of said notes and interest, according to the tenor of said notes, and the same are now unpaid, now therefore I, James H. Barlow trustee, at the request of the legal holder of said notes, do hereby give public notice that I shall on Tuesday, the 11th day of July, A. D. 1882, at the hour of ten o'clock in the forenoon at the east door of the court house in the said city of Colorado Springs in the county and state aforesaid, sell at public auction to the highest bidder, for cash, all the premises described in said trust deed, to wit:

Lots numbered one (1) and two (2) in Elizabeth F. Wolfe's subdivision of block number two hundred and forty five (245) in the city of Colorado Springs in the county of El Paso and state of Colorado, together with all and singular the tenements hereditaments, privileges and appurtenances thereunto belonging, and all right, title, interest and equity of redemption of the said Lucius S. Richardson, his heirs or assigns therein.

The Union Defeated

CLEVELAND June 9 — Men who left the union and went to work today at the Cleveland rolling mills The number of strikers resuming work is small but the officers of the company report that applications are made daily, that skilled workmen from other cities presumably detectives, are arriving while a few men from here have gone elsewhere seeking work

Precautionary Measures in Ceylon

LONDON, June 10 — The distribution of circulars to all military barracks in Ceylon has been prohibited Sentries have been doubled and night patrols quadrupled The greatest precaution against explosives has been carried into military quarters Military telegraph clerks in the royal barracks are required to sleep near their instruments

Longshoremen, three hundred in number, employed at the Hamburg and Bremen docks at Hoboken, N J, quit work yesterday

Mr. August Wehrle, the Denver piano tuner, is in the city.

Not for years have the mountain slopes looked as green as they do now.

The Sweet and Weir building on South Tejon street, which is about completed, will be called the "Oriel block."

The Republic has learned for the first time of the abduction of Miss Hattie Finch, through the columns of the Chicago Times.

Business is now looking up at Manitou, and the hotels are filling up. Should the present warm spell continue the rush will increase.

Robinson's circus will be here to-morrow. The tent will be spread near the freight depot and performances given both afternoon and evening.

Two running races will take place on the Nevada avenue track this evening, one between Tracy and Wagner, and the other between Hinman and Woodie Thompson.

The young people of the M. E. church met in the vestry last evening for the purpose of organizing a literary society. A very enjoyable time was had, and an organization effected.

The remaining two stories and roof of the new hotel will be of wood. Work is not progressing very fast just at present on account of the scarcity of carpenters, but others have been employed and will be here in a day or two.

Mr. W. P. Jewett is now at work on a new map of Colorado Springs which will be ready for the market. It will be gotten up in accordance with the most recent surveys and will include all the new additions to the city. It is something that our citizens have needed for some time as the ones now in use are very incorrect.

The colorado men have been selected to play in the Colorado Springs nine in the game with the Denver Browns next Saturday afternoon: Catcher, Traffley; pitcher, Rockwell; short stop, McIntyre; 1st base, Lewis; 2d base, Newman; 3d base, Donnelly; left field, Stovell; centre field, Austin; right field, Thornell. An extraordinarily strong nine has been secured.

Hereafter the Colorado Springs nine will be known and recognized as the "Colorado Springs Reds." They will play their first game with the "Denver Browns" next Saturday on the association grounds. Tickets of admission to the grounds are now on sale at Howbert Bros.' and Eoff & Howbert's book stores. Over two hundred tickets have been sold already.

Miss Louise Walker, oldest daughter of Mr. Walker of this city, was married yesterday to Mr. Claude Cary Dunning of Trinidad, Colorado. The ceremony was performed at the residence of the bride's parents in the presence of only a few of the more intimate friends and relatives. The bride and groom left for Trinidad, their future home, on the afternoon express.

The Chicago Book company is still continuing its sale of Standard histories, works of fiction, etc., at Brown's tailoring establishment, opposite the old post office site. Books of this kind have never before been offered at such low prices in Colorado Springs. Call and see them for there is a large assortment to select from and you cannot fail to find something that you may want.

The Manitou Park hotel will be opened on July 1st under the management of Miss A. A. Warren of this city. This is one of the most attractive mountain resorts in Colorado. During the winter the house has been thoroughly renovated and otherwise repaired. There will be a billiard room and livery in connection with the house. Stages will leave this city and Manitou for the park each Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays. Any one wishing further particulars as to rates, etc., can procure them by addressing Miss A. A. Warren, lock box 760, Colorado Springs.

The first open air concert by the 1st Regiment Cavalry Band will be given in Acacia park this evening at eight o'clock. This will be the first of a series of open air concerts to be given twice every week. Either the city or some of the citizens, by private subscription, should take some steps to provide the boys with a band stand. The programme for to-night is as follows:

Five Hundred Thousand Teufel Quickstep ..... G. Michaelis.
Andante and Waltz ..... C. Michaelis.
Nibelungen Quickstep ..... R. Wagner.
Pirates of Penzance ..... A. Sullivan.
Reunion Gondrille ..... F. Zikoff.
Greeting From the Rhine Schottische ..... R. Pirkel.
Battle Quickstep ..... J. H. Wadsworth.

A correspondent of the Republic suggests that the Gazette extend its assistance in ascertaining who the person or persons were who defaced the pavement, as he calls it, in front of Messrs. Conant & Thedinga's, between the hours of 12 m. and 1 p. m. on last Saturday. We do not want to implicate any citizen in the violation of the law, but if we are allowed to judge there was not a single citizen who stepped on that sidewalk on the afternoon referred to who did not leave the imprint of his or her foot and carry off more or less of the composition. If this is the way it was done we think it must have happened very frequently before this summer flower.

A meeting of the Colorado Springs Reds was held last night and Messrs. W. R. Thornell and J. E. McIntyre were elected delegates to the league convention, to be held here Saturday next. The question of accepting the challenge of the H. P. club, to play at Omaha on July 4th, was also considered, and the club determined not to go. It was concluded that it would be to the best interests of the club to play some state club on that date, either the Leadvilles or Denvers. No challenges will be made or accepted however until after Saturday's meeting of the league, when a series of games will be provided for.

MARRIED.

DUNNING—WALKER.—June 20th, at the residence of the bride's parents, by the Rev. G. T. LeBourillier, rector of Grace church, Claude Cary Dunning, of Trinidad, Colorado, to Miss Louise Walker, of Colorado Springs.

BUSINESS LOCALS.

Ten cents per line for first insertion; five cents per line for each subsequent insertion. Advertisements to go in every other day, or on certain days of the week only, ten cents per line for each insertion.
